The Regenesiis Program offers several recovery homes for men and women who are being set free from substance abuse and other 'at risk behavior". Each home has a full time ministry leader who oversees the home. The residency program is disciplined and structured with multiple layers of accountability that provide the resident with biblical principles. The program is designed to provide a stable environment to help individuals become productive through hard work, community service, Bible studies and being held accountable for their actions.

The Ester House is a female residential home. The House of James is a male residential home. Minimal requirements are:

- Minimum of six months commitment,
- Desire for true change,
- To have a teachable spirit,
