Home Again provides an emergency shelter for individuals and families.

The Espigh Family Shelter provides a temporary safe haven for families with children (including single men and women with children). This crisis housing facility can safely shelter up to 35 women and families of any composition. Families receive intensive case management whereby the needs of each family are assessed and each is helped to develop a specific, detailed housing plan that includes securing a steady income and searching for safe, decent, and affordable housing that meets their needs.

HomeAgain offers tenant and financial skills training while utilizing other community resources to help families address issues that could negatively affect long-term housing success, such as substance abuse and mental health issues. Housing Counselors and Case Managers help families select and locate housing.
