Relocation Services - Moving is a way of life in the Air Force. Whether it's your first, fifth or last move, it's always a major undertaking and it's important that you seek relocation assistance services from your A&FRC. We assist single and married members as well as Department of Defense civilians and families through all aspects of a move through services such as 20 hours of free child care for those with orders for a permanent change of station, as they depart and arrive.

The Family Support Center helps Air Force families enhance their quality of life. To accomplish this, the Family Support Center: (1) works with commanders and units to enhance family well-being; (2) is the primary resource for coordinating family programs on and off base; (3) acts as an information and referral resource; and (4) provides family education and life skills programs.

The Relocation Assistance program offers assistance with all aspects of a permanent change in station (PCS) move to and from the installation.
