The Up Center's Steven A. Cohen Military Family Clinic provides customized therapy for a variety of mental health issues including anxiety, depression, PTSD, transitional issues, and relationship issues. Clinicians and staff are culturally competent and aware of the issues faced by veterans and their families. If a veteran or family member is in crisis, we will see them the same day. The care is confidential and private and does not share your information with any public, private, or government entities unless required by law.

The Steven A. Cohen Military Family Clinic at The Up Center offers mental health services to post-9/11 veterans and their families, regardless of the veteran's role while in uniform, discharge status, or combat experience. Services are also available for all active-duty family members. For more information about the national Cohen Veterans Network (CVN), visit the website. A free online course Tools for Managing Stress and Worry is available on the CVN website.

The Military Family Clinic is located in Virginia Beach, near South Independence Boulevard and South Plaza Trail. Free Parking is available onsite. Transportation and childcare are available upon request.
