And for the first time ever, Veterans who are blind can read their decision letter by themselves within the VA Health and Benefits mobile app.

“One of the biggest things that Veterans get is their rating decision. No blind Veteran can read it. It’s paper. It’s a huge document sent to you; someone has to read it to you. I don’t know what you did but you can read rating decisions now in the app. OMG this is awesome! It was beautiful, I can now read it!” explained Claudia Baldwin, an Air Force Veteran.

Veteran designed and approved

VA designed and developed the mobile app with Veterans’ feedback, so it’s an easy, streamlined and secure digital platform that allows you to complete everyday VA tasks from an iOS or Android smartphone and other mobile device, such as an iPad. It offers a more personalized experience, allowing you to quickly and easily connect with VA to manage your health care and benefits needs.

VA will continue to use findings from Veteran research, quantitative user data, and benefit utilization to validate the design and features before we roll them out to all Veterans.

The VA Health and Benefits mobile app has quickly risen on the Apple App Store, receiving a 4.8-star rating, and on the Google Play Store, receiving a 4.6-star rating. The app lets Veterans access the resources they need, wherever they are, whenever they need them.
